

programme and project management

our approach

Whether supporting straightforward or complex projects, our clients benefit from knowing that their ICT projects are delivered in a professional manner and with a fully auditable trail. By understanding the client perspective, we take into account the human factors which ultimately help to achieve the true value of the investment made. Our aim is to deliver a professionally managed project, against a defined budget and on time.

our experience

Our experience of delivering projects is based on diversity and complexity. Working predominantly on ICT projects, we have also gained experience of programme managing international change management projects and product launches. Having recently managed projects both in the UK and internationally, Mundial Consulting has in each case been able to add tangible value to its clients.

our value

- Professionally managed projects
- Links to PRINCE 2 methodology
- Commercial project management
- Shared risk
- Integration with human factors and culture
